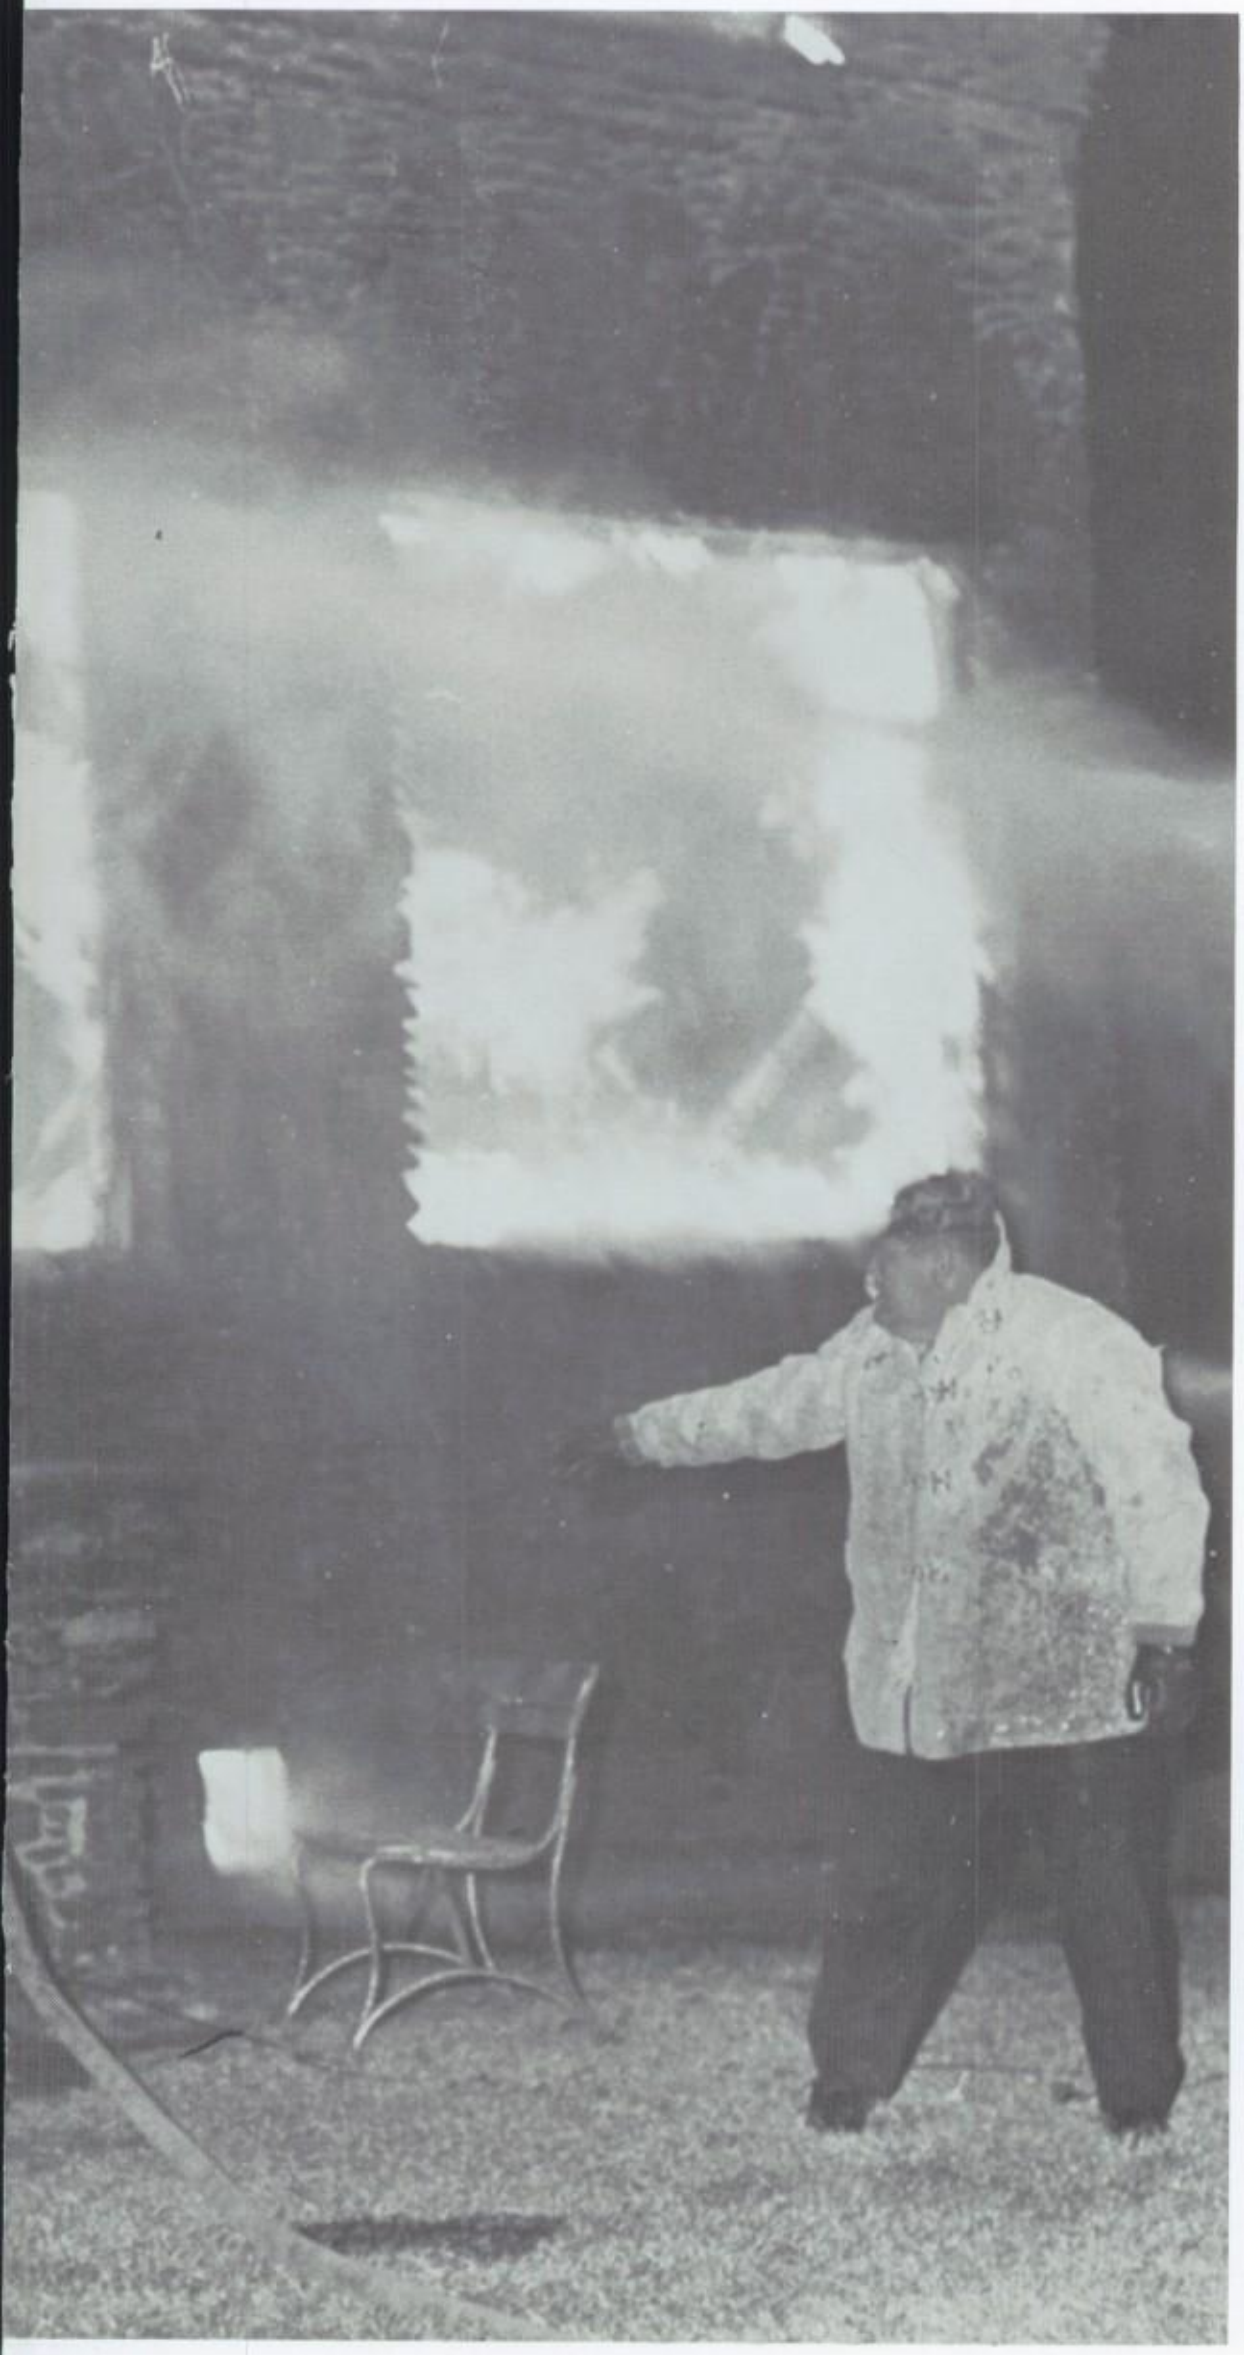
Epitaph, Found Somewhere in Space

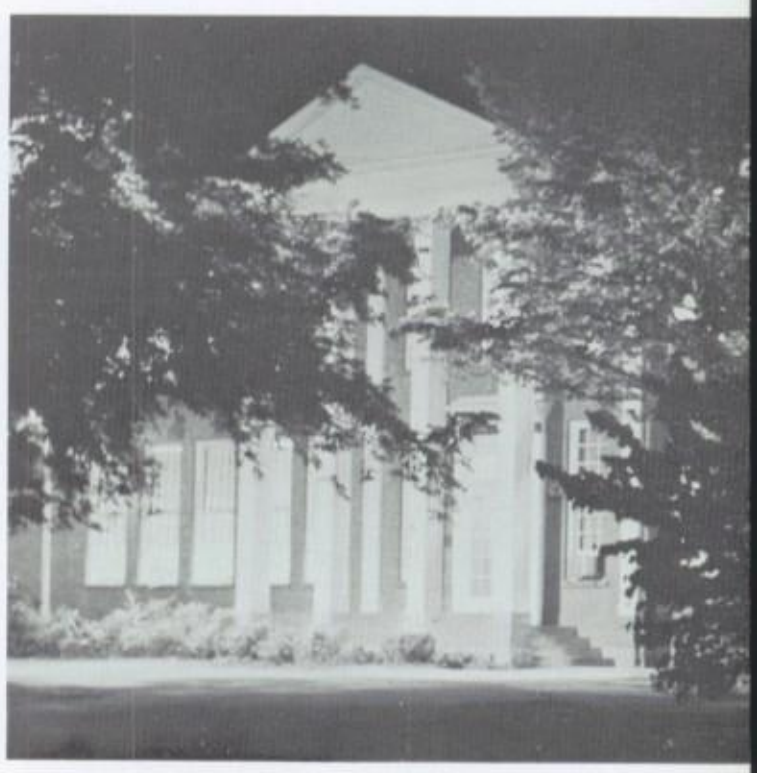
In desolation, here a lost world lies.
All wisdom was its aim: with noble plan,
It sounded ocean deeps; measured the skies;
And fathomed every mystery but Man.

Hugh Wilgus Ramsaur

Marks of a "lost world" . . . student "pranks" and carelessness . . . a warped mind with little regard for personal pride or safety . . . school spirit pride scorned . . . a few swipes with a paint brush . . . the screech of tires . . . laughter . . . the search for Man ends in mockery and immaturity.

From school campus to school campus the search extends . . . vandalism is no respecter of place or group . . . fire strikes . . . buildings burn . . . hearts and minds smoulder . . . an eruption into violence . . . the streets overflow . . . Man seeking to understand Man through confusion and hate . . . nobility and destiny questioned.





Local conflicts miniature national confusion . . . Vietnam . . . Haight-Ashbury . . . Columbia . . . names synonomous with disturbance and chaos in thought and action . . . all predict the discovery of Man . . . his revelation remains shrouded in mystery . . . war, riot, dropouts . . . no explanation, no solution, no discovery . . . Man must look deeper into himself . . . he must search the infinite for God, the author of Man.

Peace . . . not the absence of hate . . . acceptance of a Love . . . the heavens declare . . . contemplation . . . quiet . . . Man is a mystery . . . religion without mystery is religion without God . . . Man reaching up to God . . . God reaching down to Man . . . there is a Plan . . . there is hope.

Doty,
I've enjoyed being with you these years in classes. Hay like you are and you'll do great. Also good luck in football. Donna

Doty
You are are a real great guy. I'm sure you'll go a long way in anything you try.

Ernie

Doty,
Is a real neat guy who I've enjoyed knowing these years.
Love,
Susan

Doty,
I think you're a great guy and a great tennis player.
Lisa Hanvey

Doty,
You're really a great guy; I know
you'll go far & do well in anything you do.
Love,
Judy

Brain —
You're really a great guy. You can do anything you set your mind to so set your goals high. John

Doty, You have really improved in football. Keep it up, Good luck always Walt

Doty, you are really a great guy. Good luck in football + everything Frank (Faigl)

Doty, A great guy to know. Let's get together sometime & have a camping trip soon. Take it easy, Take care Chris

Jo a great guy. Stay as nice as you are now. I'll miss ya, Becky Burton
